NEUTRALS TO VANISH, SAYS DISTINGUISHED LAW EXPERT

Illinois Professor Talks To Students Here

LESSONS OF WAR

Deplores Lack Of Enforcement Machinery

Dr. James Wilford Garner, Professor of Political Science at the University of Illinois since 1904 and author of a large number of well-known treatises on political and legal subjects, delivered a lecture before The Comparative Law School of China, Law Department of Soochow University, yesterday afternoon. Professor and Mrs. Garner are on their way to India, where Prof. Garner will deliver the Tagore Lectures before Calcutta University. Leaving home about the middle of August they have visited many points in Japan and China, and go on to Hongkong today.

Prior delivering the lecture at the Law School, Prof. Garner called on Dr. Sun Yat-sen, and gave an address to the students of the Commercial Department of Southeastern University. For his address before the Law School, Prof. Garner selected as his theme "The Present Outlook for International Law." Following the lecture Prof. and Mrs. Garner were guests of honor at a dinner at the Yih Ping Shang hotel. Among those acting as hosts were Dr. P. W. Kuo, President of Southeastern University; Dr. T. H. Lee, President of Fuh Tan University; and Dean W. W. Blume of the Law School.

The following is a summary of Prof. Garner's address before the Law School:

"During and after the Great World War it was a current opinion even among reputable jurists that international law had collapsed. They concluded that because it had been violated it had been destroyed. Yet during the war the existence of international law was never denied by the belligerents, who appealed to it on every occasion, and tried to justify acts of reprisal, etc., as being according to its provisions. My years of close study have led me to believe that international law will never be destroyed, and in my opinion it is the greatest achievement of our modern civilisation.

HAS DEFECTS

"When municipal law is broken we do not consider that it has been destroyed, but on the other hand there is a redoubled effort to uphold and strengthen it. In international law it is the same.

"Of course international law has defects, which came to light in the world war, so it was ridiculed and called international ettiquette, international comity, or international morality, instead of law. This is only a narrow interpretation of the subject. It is recognised as law by our courts, is called law, and is interpreted as such.

"The first defect that might be mentioned is that there is no legislature to formulate the rules.

"The second defect is that although we have a court to enforce the rules, that it is too limited in its jurisdiction as it can take jurisdiction only of such matters as are voluntarily entrusted to it by the states.

"Third, there is a great divergence of opinion by jurists as to what the law is. There are three schools, the Anglo-American, the Latin-American, and the European. Each places a different interpretation on certain rules and doctrines.

"Fourth, there is no proper sanction. There is no machinery to bring to the bar of justice those states which violate its provisions, to compel them to make answer. To give a proper sanction is one of the greatest tasks of future international law jurists. The law of peace has a sufficient sanction in public opinion, but in time of war, when a nation's life is threatened and its existence is in danger, this sanction breaks down. It depends upon statesmanship to devise organisation that will correct this defect. I believe that such an

"Little Hsu" In Yenping, Fukien; Heads Government Set Up By Local Leaders

Circular Telegram To Press Says Former Anfu Chief Will Support Marshal Tuan And Dr. Sun In Campaign Against Peking

A Military Reconstructive Government has been established by General Hsu Shu-tseng, following his arrival in Yenping, Fukien, recently to co-operate with General Hsu Chung-chi of the Northern Punitive Expedition against Li Hao-chi, Tuchun of Fukien. In a telegraphic declaration to the press he stated that he would exert all his energy in support of Dr. Sun Yat-sen and Marshal Tuan Chi-jui. The full text of his message follows:

"Impatient of the anarchy that is existing in China today, I circulated on July 21 a communique in connection with the distribution of my book on National Reconstruction for your perusal. During the last two months, no improvements have been made, while self-appointed executives and bureau chiefs occupy the sacred precincts of Peking like child play. They are there with sinister motives. Even when their subordinates go on strike and even when their very bodies were assaulted and injured, they persist in holding their offices, without any sense of shame.

CONDITIONS WORSE

"In the provinces troops mutiny while brigands run wild, worse than ever. Even within the confines of Peking, at Nanyuan and at Peiyuan, these calamities have happened. On top of these, flood, hurricane and pestilence are distressing our people, who are burning their own bones for firewood and devouring ther own children for food.

"In a word we are today being preyed upon by a class of unthinking, unworking and vagabonding usurpers known as mandarins. Why don't you close your eyes and meditate a little bit over the horrible situation that is being brought to your threshold by these worthies, and devise some means of salvation?

"Within and without Peking, the mandarins are securing secret loans and issuing bogus bonds continuously. The farmer loses his work through oppressive taxation. The banker is bankrupt through the emptying of his treasury. The students and teachers are being starved to death as the institution of higher learning is closed down and no man of ability can be turned out.

FOR PRIVATE GAINS

"Moreover, the militarists in the provinces are still struggling for personal gains. Political parties are intriguing for selfish purposes. Chaos and disturbance are apparent everywhere. All these are prompted by their insatiable desire to grab more money and more influence. They have no time to consider the eminent danger of being controlled by a joint foreign administration under which their millions would be valueless and useless.

"I have no patience for these ignorant and suicidal creatures but I do care for my country and my people. Some of my fellow-countrymen praise me because they wish to encourage me to do better things for the country. Others criticise me, because they desire to correct me. While I am still one of the citizens of the country, I shall exert every particle of my energy to bring happiness to it. Even in exile, even without an inch of iron to defend myself, I have kept my principles and determined to be loyal to them.

"All my former colleagues are still with me despite the stormy and unprofitable days in the past, which even served to cement the tie of association to a high degree of solidity. A large number of patriots in the various provinces remains to be my staunch friends, especially in the province of Fukien. The latter had repeatedly wired and written to me inviting me to participate in the struggle for salvation. The attitude of the officers in Foochow, Amoy, Tingchow, Changchow and Yenping is especially cordial, so I have come to Yenping to consult the local authorities and formulate plans for the work.

SWEAR FOR SERVICE

"On October 2, we offered sacrifice to Heaven and offered ourselves to work for national salvation, aiming at the reunification of the country and saving the nation from imminent peril. On this day a Military Reconstructive Government was inaugurated. I myself being elected head of this government, whose seat will be removed to Foochow in the near future to deal with military and civil matters in accordance with the principles set forth in my book on National Reconstruction.

"I shall do what is right within the jurisdiction of my power and influence. My colleagues and rivals in the other provinces who might have had some controversy with me, are requested to forget their difference in order that we may work together for our common interest, while I on my part will take into consideration no previous feeling of enmity.

"From now on, friends and foes will be classified according to the men's ability of carrying out what was laid in the book of National Reconstruction, while my policy of employment and commission will also be based on these principles. Any one who can amend my book in the interest of the nation, I would regard as my beneficiary. Any one who can entrust me with work of the nation, I shall respect. Before the reunification of the entire nation, I shall take orders from none.

"However, I shall sincerely and honestly support Marshal Tuan Chi-jui and Dr. Sun Yat-sen as leaders of the country and shall obey the instructions which they might give. At present, unless these two gentlemen take the reins of government into their hands the foundation of the nation can never be placed on a strong basis. So I dare to advocate their leadership, inviting the world to support them in the interest of humanity.

"As soon as these two leaders are placed in their proper offices I shall be content to retire or to receive the ultimate verdict of the public for whatever misdeeds I may have done."

Concluding Argument Begun In Giesel Case

A strong plea for the dismissal of his client was made at the French Mixed Court yesterday morning by Dr. O. Fischer when closing argument was begun in the case in which Mr. A. Giesel is charged with the manufacture and sale of spurious Hennessy brandy and Noilly, Prat vermouth. The argument, which is being heard by Assessor P. Crepin and Magistrate Nieh, was not concluded at yesterday's session and the case was adjourned until next Friday.

Dr. O. Fischer made a complete resume of the entire case. He spoke at length regarding the splendid character of the defendant and dilated upon the fact that in 27 years while engaged continuously in the liquor business in Shanghai no untoward act had sullied his business reputation.

Regarding the purchase of stock of Reids, Ltd., when the latter company met financial difficulties Dr. Fischer stated that Mr. Giesel bought the stock from the banks involved in complete good faith. He said the fact that Reid's, Ltd., had frequently suffered from attacks on the purity of its products, having once been fined $2,000 in the American court for alleged falsification of labels, was unknown to his client.

MANY LABELS PRINTED HERE

He said that it was a common custom among foreign wine importers to print their own labels and corks here, and utilise them when bottling wine shipped from Bordeaux.

Assessor Crepin: "You say that this is a common custom? Do French importers sanction it?"

"They not only sanction it but quite frequently encourage the practise," Dr. Fischer replied.

He then told explicitly how his client expected to make a small profit from the 762 cases of vermouth purchased from the Mercantile Bank of India and had them placed in the Giesel Co., godown at 1A Chaufoong Road. Much time was required for the liquidation of the Reid's affairs, during which time Mr. Giesel made no effort to dispose of his stock on hand. During this time the defendent did not examine his purchases, relying on the reputation of the house from which he purchased it. Any discharges from the godown were receipted for by A. C. Mack who was then Mr. Giesel's trusted employee.

GIESEL IGNORANT

Regarding the later developments in which N. Blumenthal figured conspicuously, Dr. Fischer stated that the latter never once came near Mr. Giesel during his investigations despite the fact that the latter was frequently in his private office upstairs during the investigations.

Dr. Fischer further stated that Mr. Blumenthal supplied the funds to purchase the materials for the making of the spurious cognac which was made by Battustizzi and Mack which was quite without either the knowledge or sanction of the defendant.

The fact that the spurious cognac was stored in the Giesel Co's godowns was quite easy since Mack was able at all times

LITERARY SECTION OF WOMAN'S CLUB BEGINS SEASON

Interesting Papers Read By Mrs. Duncar And Mrs. Davies

Mrs. W. W. Bartlett presided at the opening meeting of the Literary Department of the American Woman's Club held yesterday at the Royal Asiatic Hall. Mrs. Philip H. Dunbar managed to compress within the confines of a brief paper the outstanding facts of Chinese history prior to the Han Dynasty without losing perspective or vitality. Her paper traced the growth of political unity, noted the contributions made by early philosophers, reformers, politicians and historians, and itemised the material accomplishments achieved in practical devices, fine arts, and ritual.

Mrs. J. P. Davies gave a spirited resume of one of the old Chinese stories translated by Mr. Jackson of the Thomas Hanbury School, showing how a poor scholar was implicated in the robberies committed by pirates, was allowed to escape through the magnanimity of Li, the Duke of Ch'ien, persuaded by the evil representations of his wife, endeavored to rid himself of the burden of obligation by killing his benefactor, who fortunately escaped through the agencies of a servant and an opportune magician.

The next department meeting will be held on October 27, with a paper by Mrs. Bakeman and a story from Mr. Charles Kilene.

LONDON IS WORRIED BY HARINGTON'S DESPATCH ON TURKISH ATTITUDE

Kemalists' Insistence Upon Introduction Of Political Issues Causes Grave Concern In British Capital —Withdrawal Not Considered

SOVIET TO MOBILISE IN BLACK SEA

Turks Continue Military Concentrations In Direction Of The Ismid And Chanak Zone—British Lines Extended And Strengthened

(Reuter's Service)

London, Oct. 6.—The Cabinet separated after an hour and a half without any definite decisions. A most unsatisfactory state of affairs was shown by Sir Charles Harington's despatch due to the attitude of the Turkish delegates on the question of interim military arrangements which was to have been a subject for discussion by the Mudania conference but had not yet been reached through the desire of the Turks to introduce political issues entirely outside the scope of the conference. Military dispositions in the neutral zone were consequently not discussed and the question of the British withdrawal from Chanak in which connection erroneous reports have been published was not considered.

London, Oct. 6.—The gravity of the situation at Mudania is fully recognised by the morning papers though they do not despair that a way out will ultimately be found. They understand that the Turks suddenly adopted a much more intransigeant attitude, suggesting territorial advantages quite beyond the competence of the military gathering, including a portion of West Thrace. They are reported, too, to be demanding to occupy East Thrace before the peace conference and a measure of control in Constantinople.

The British Government, however, is firmly opposed to allowing major political issues to be prejudiced before the full conference. Moreover, it is pointed out that in spite of the Turks' assurances military concentration in the direction of the Ismid and Chanak zones is still proceeding. Kemalist artillery is reported to be a considerable distance from Chanak, where, meanwhile, General Marden has utilised reinforcements to lengthen the British line.

The attitude of Greece, too, is a serious menacing factor. Advices from Athens show that the Government is firmly opposed to evacuation of Thrace. The capital is placarded with appeals for volunteers.

M. Venizelos left London for Paris yesterday evening.

Several papers are inclined to question whether the presence of the civilian, M. Franklin Boullion, at the military conference will tend to facilitate an agreement.

The Times thinks that the situation looks undeniably grave and that the success of the conference is undoubtedly endangered. The tenor of the Angora Note upon many points, the paper says, suggests that its authors may not be in a very pliant mood.

The Morning Post is of the opinion that there is no need to despair because matters are not progressing favorably and at lightning speed. The Turks are Orientals and hard bargainers.

The Daily Telegraph states that the best hope of a good solution lies in the visible presence of a British armed force in support of real freedom of the Straits. The Angora Note means that the Turks are ready to enter a conference on the general lines of the Paris agreement and that they will reassert their re-entry into the European system as stiffly as they can.

The Daily Chronicle urges the need for a united front.

The Daily Express demands that there should be no compromise regarding the freedom of the Straits but is apparently prepared to meet the Turks on most other points.

The Westminster Gazette takes an optimistic view of the nature of the Angora Note.

Berlin, Oct. 6.—The Soviet Government has decided to mobilise the Black Sea naval forces.

Constantinople, Oct. 5.—The Allied Generals are returning from Mudania this evening.

There has been no official statement with regard to the causes of the separation of the Conference.

Constantinople, Oct. 5.—The Allied Generals are returning in order to consult the Allied High Commissioners on certain points which have arisen at the Mudania Conference. There will be a combined meeting tomorrow morning after which the Generals will return to Mudania.

London, Oct. 5.—The Cabinet was hurriedly summoned at 11 o'clock tonight to consider a despatch from Sir Charles Harington disclosing an unsatisfactory condition of affairs at Mudania. The Cabinet requested him to repeat the despatch, which was incomplete owing to a wireless breakdown, and to remain in Constantinople to await further instructions.

Constantinople, Oct. 5.—Turkish cavalry was sighted at Kandra within the neutral zone of Ismid today.

A British communique states that the conference resumed yesterday morning. Sir Charles Harington handed Ismet Pasha the draft convention agreed to by the Allied Generals, after considering the points raised by Ismet Pasha on Tuesday.

Ismet Pasha in the afternoon intimated various objections to the

LEOPOLD JACOB'S DEATH FOLLOWED THAT OF BROTHER

Former Shanghai Man Was Taking Body Home When Stricken

Details of the sudden death in Chicago of Mr. Leopold Jacob, formerly well known in Shanghai as manager of the China and Java Export Co., show that his demise followed that of his brother by only two days, thus constituting a double tragedy for his sister and sister-in-law who were with him at the end. The following clipping from the Hide and Leather Gazette gives the details:

Leopold Jacob, connected with the Abe Stein Co., importers of hides and skins, died suddenly in Chicago on Sunday evening, September 3. Mr. Jacob was on the sad errand of transferring to Eau Claire, Wis., the body of his brother who was operated on at the St. Luke's Hospital, New York, about three weeks ago and who died there on Friday night, September 1. Leopold Jacob, in company with his sister and sister-in-law, the wife of his brother, departed from New York on Saturday with the body, and while the transfer was being made in Chicago, Mr. Jacob was suddenly stricken with heart failure and died in a little hospital connected with the Northwestern Station in Chicago. Mr. Jacob was a second cousin to Abe Stein, with whom he started his business career when a boy of 16. He was in China for the Abe Stein Co. for eighteen years, but resided in New York for the past two or three years. He was well known in the trade here and abroad, and was particularly in close association with glazed kid tanners and raw goatskin importers and dealers. Mr. Jacob was a bachelor.

Fires Destroy 3 Canadian Towns

(Reuter's Service)

Toronto, Oct. 6.—Forest fires in North Ontario have wiped out the settlements of Haileybury, North Cobalt and other places. It is reported that the deathroll totals 30. It is feared, however, that many more are dead. Thousands of persons are homeless. The fires are raging over 2500 square miles. Damage is estimated at millions of dollars. Three relief trains have been despatched.

protocol and the Allied delegates, desirous of conciliation, readily assented to several of the objections but there were still a few points not settled when the conference adjourned at eight in the evening.

The Greek delegates reached Mudania late in the afternoon and the conference resumed this morning.

A French communique states that Ismet Pasha yesterday raised fairly categorical objections on certain points. The Generals are examining these. The common wish is to arrive at a settlement keeping the Turkish interests especially in view and endeavoring to reconcile them with the minimum indispensable guarantees. The Allied Generals conferred with the Greek delegates at ten yesterday evening.

It is hoped that a final settlement will be reached today.

London, Oct. 5.—Angora's reply to the Allied invitation suggests a peace conference at Smyrna on October 20 and requests the inclusion of Russia, the Ukraine and Georgia.

The reply to the Allied invitation, which has been received by the Foreign Office, states that the Angora Government appreciates the desire for a just and durable peace.

The Mudania meeting will deal with Angora's viewpoint regarding the present military situation and its decisions will be completely executed.

With regard to the peace conference, Angora accepts the invitation and suggests that the conference should be held at Smyrna on October 20 and proposes that Russia, the Ukraine and Georgia should be invited.

The Angora Government thanks the Allies for recognising the Turkish rights in Thrace and declares that there is no disagreement in principle with regard to the freedom of the Straits to secure the safety of Constantinople and the Sea of Marmora and the safeguard of minorities within limits compatible either with the independence and soverignty of Turkey or the exigencies of an effective settlement in the Near East.

The reply points out that apart from the four Great Powers and Greece the two other States have been invited to the Conference, presumably because they are interested in certain questions to be settled, but the only important question of this kind is the control of the Straits and The Angora Government is, therefore, surprised that Russia, the Ukraine and Georgia have not been invited since they are deeply interested and their participation will help to make a settlement more lasting.

Angora promises to communicate her reply later with regard to her membership of the League. She welcomes the renewed assurances regarding the evacuation of Constantinople by the Allied troops and is convinced that the Allies will appreciate the inpatience with which Angora awaits the realisation of it.

The reply states that Angora is impressed by the appeal with which the Allied note concludes and assures the Allies of Angora's loyal and sincere assistance in the reestablishing and maintaining of peace.

Angora's proposal for a conference at Smyrna is not favored in authoritative circles in London owing to Smyrna's remoteness from the Allied capitals and the probable lack of accommodation and facilities for communication.

It is worthy of note that the latter disadvantage is being felt in connection with Mudania.

A conference of the Cabinet had to adjourn in consequence of the non-receipt of the details of yesterday's session. Thus there is at present no indication whether a satisfactory solution has been reached today but this is not anticipated since, as an authoritative statement says the discussions are beset with difficulties owing to the great divergency of the interests at stake.

(China Press Service)

Athens, Oct. 6.—The Minister of War has issued a proclamation calling on every able bodied citizen who does not belong to the army to join in a volunteer mobilisation to assist in the war against Turkey.

London, Oct. 6.—Kemal Pasha, leader of the Turkish Nationalists, entered Angora as a conqueror and was greeted by the populace with all the honors due a conqueror of old according to news dispatches received today by The Daily Express.

Kemal was received by a delegation of members of the National Assembly and driven in state through the streets through saluting troops and beneath a triumphal arch to the Legislative building where he was congratulated on his victories over the Greeks.

Constantinople, Oct. 5.—The Mudania Conference began Tuesday afternoon but was adjourned until Wednesday to permit the attendance of Greek delegates.

A free hand was given General Harington to deal with all military questions while subjects of a political or economic nature were referred to the British High Commissioner.

The Allied Ministers are understood to have drawn the attention of the Greek Government of the necessity of keeping the troops in Thrace under control and to avoid every possibility of conflict.

The Greek troops in Thrace are reported to be in a dangerous state of unrest.

Many prominent Chinese have taken refuge in the foreign quarter.

Forty men, half of whom have since returned to the ship, were detailed yesterday from an American destroyer for the protection of Americans at Foochow.

A meeting of influential Foochow gentry has requested the Chinese warships lying off Mamoi to furnish protection against looting if the invaders enter the city. Admiral Sah Chen-ping is reported to be en route to Foochow.

to have access by demanding the key from Lee, the godown keeper.

"If Mr. Giesel was aware of the fact that the liquor was stored on the premises under his control there is no reason why he should not have held it, but the godown receipts prove conclusively that the cognac was held only three days or a week before it was shipped elsewhere."

Assessor Crepin asked how Dr. Fischer knew this to be a fact. The latter replied that he had received the information from Battistuzzi.

Assessor Crepin: "So you talked to the witness before the preliminary examination."

Dr. Fischer: "I have that right."

Assessor Crepin: "You had no such right and what is more important, you know it."

Dr. Fischer: "I have never heard of such a ruling. It is the custom of all courts where I practise for the counsel for the accused to talk to witnesses at any time he sees fit.

Assessor Crepin: "That has never been the custom in the French court and I hereby forbid it absolutely."

Assessor Crepin then turned to the defendant and asked "Why did you say to your employees 'Now you see I'm arrested?' You must have expected it.

Mr. Giesel: "I merely expressed surprise."

"I don't know what I said, except that my arrest came as a complete surprise." Mr. Giesel was handed a bottle of grenadine and asked if it was sold by his firm. He acknowledged it, but denied selling absinthe for $6 a bottle. Dr. Fischer pleaded for a postponement of his client's case until next Friday. After some deliberation the postponement was granted.

Attorney Le Gouellec opened the case for the prosecution, stating that it was only fair to both the houses of Hennessy and Nolly-Prat that justice should be done, and that their name should not be smirched by spurious infringements. He said that he did not believe it was humanly possible for the director of a large wine importing firm to be so absolutely ignorant of the way his business was transacted and stated that he would prove that Mr. Giesel had intimate knowledge both of the falsification of labels as well as the manufacture of spurious liquor.

He agreed to an adjourument until next Friday morning.

Ex-Soldier Is Fined For Selling Pistol

A Chinese named Yoong Zung-ngan, who claimed to have come to Shanghai with Dr. Sun Yat-sen and to have been one of the Southern leader's former soldiers was fined $10 in the Mixed Court yesterday for being in possession of arms. The accused was arrested in a lodging house on Shantung Road where he was trying to sell an automatic pistol and 110 rounds of ammunition. In court he pleaded that he had no money and so had tried to dispose of the weapon.

The Assessor, Mr. Blackburn, said that he did not wish to impose a prison sentence, but that the court would have to let these people know that they could not go about the Settlement selling arms.

FOR REMOVING SUPERFLUOUS HAIR

No woman who has any sense of beauty will deny that superfluous hair is one of the greatest drawbacks to good looks.

Realising this, women of all times have put themselves to any expense, and have endured considerable pain and discomfort in order to rid themselves of this great disfigurement.

Nowadays electrolysis is a prevalent "cure" for this evil, but in reality this process involves a great deal of unnecessary expense, waste of time and pain.

The simplest quickest, and most effective treatment can easily be carried out by any sufferer, in the privacy of her home. This is the recipe:

Procure about 1 oz. powdered pheminol from your chemist; mix a sufficient quantity with a few drops of water into a stiff paste. Apply this carefully and thoroughly to the hair you wish to remove and allow the paste to dry. In a few minutes it can be gently scraped away. The skin is left absolutely free from hair, and should then be carefully washed in warm water, and if desired, lightly dusted with a little talcum powder. (Advt.)

Sergeant Fry, who was comparatively a young man, joined the police department here in October, 1911, and his faithful service and loyalty is the subject of tribute in orders issued following his death by the Commissioner of Police. He went home on war service on November 19, 1917 and served through the war with the Motor Transport section of the Royal Air Force. He returned to Shanghai on May 6, 1920, since which time he had been in poor health. His home was in Brighton, Sussex, where his mother is still living.

Sergeant Fry was a member of the Junior Club and an active and ardent member of the Club's lawn bowls section. He was also a cricketer of ability and prominent also in acquatic sports, water polo in particular. He had a wide circle of friends in Shanghai and was one of the most popular men on the force.

Funeral services will be held today at 5 p.m. at Bubbling Well Cemetery. All friends are invited to attend.

Ticket Collector Is Accused Of Causing Passenger's Suicide

Unusual Charge Features Case In The Mixed Court

An unusual case cropped up in the Mixed Court yesterday when Luen Tien-sung, a ticket inspector on the Indo-China company's steamer Luen Ho, was charged with inciting a passenger to commit suicide while the vessel was off Sian Kao Sai, in the Yangtsze, last Monday.

Mr. M. B. Brown appeared to prosecute the case on behalf of the Anhwei Provincial Association and Mr. Salmon appeared for the defendant. Mr. Brown stated that according to investigation by the Association and the police an Anhwei man named Lieu Ong-nyoh boarded the ship, with several friends, at Kiukiang, intending to go to Anking. He was without funds or a ticket and the accused, on discovery of this fact, is alleged to have had the man roughly used and to have threatened to have him strung up in the rigging. Counsel thought that this amounted to torture and Lieu had remarked that rather than submit he would commit suicide. To this the defendant is alleged to have replied "That is the best thing you can do." Whereupon it is declared, Lieu jumped overboard and was never seen again.

The man's companions were greatly incensed, counsel said, and the ticket inspector was taken in charge by the captain and locked up for his own safety. After the ship had docked he crept out, but was seen by witnesses who were watching for him and was handed over to the police. The alleged crime was committed in Anhwei and counsel's clients had already requested the Anhwei authorities to send a despatch warrant to have the accused turned over for trial. He suggested that the man be held in custody until these authorities were heard from. Counsel declared he had evidence enough to make out a prima facie case.

Mr. Salmon said he was anxious that the case be tried in this court as there was a strong feeling against these people engaged on ships collecting money from passengers and directly he was handed over his life would be forfeit. The offense had taken place on a British ship and the accused had been put in irons by the captain brought to Shanghai and taken into custody by the police.

Detective Sergeant Quayle declared that this was incorrect. The man had been released from the ship and went ashore and was in the street when seen by witnesses and given into custody.

The court stated that it was not prepared to settle the matter of jurisdiction at this time and remanded the case until next Friday, allowing the accused to be released on $500 shop security.

Friend Gets Details Of Strickland Death

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, October 6.—Writing to Colonel Ruxton regarding Mr. W. S. Strickland's death, the latter's brother says that Mr. Strickland was fishing in Kootenay Lake on a small boat, which, presumably, was capsized by a big fast launch passing at the time. Mr. Strickland probably endeavored to swim ashore but the coldness of the water and the distance would have proved too much for most men. Fruitless efforts were made to recover the body and, owing to the great depth and coldness of the Lake, it seemed unlikely that the body would be recovered.

Woman Shot Self Many Weeks Ago, Police Not Informed

A belated inquest was held by Assessor Blackburn and Magistrate Li of the Mixed Court yesterday in connection with the death, by accidental shooting over a month ago of the concubine of General Dung Ming-cha, a member of the Army Board of Peking.

In connection with the case the Assessor made strong statements regarding the responsibility of doctors and hospital authorities to notify the police of all cases of shooting or stabbing victims which come to their attention.

According to the evidence adduced the woman, Dung Wong-sze, picked up a pistol which the General had concealed beneath a pillow of his bed at 82 Carter Road and touched the trigger, shooting herself through the left breast. This was on July 26. She was taken to Shantung Road Hospital and died there on August 9. The police first learned of the case on September 25.

Dr. Patrick, who treated the patient, told the court that he did not know of the regulation for informing the police in such cases as they were rare in his experience.

"Let us take this opportunity," said the Assessor, "to impress upon you that in any case of injury caused by bullet or stab a report should be made to the police. I wish you to inform your staff to that effect."

The husband said he had not reported the matter to the police because there was a newspaper report of the accident and anyway the woman appeared to be recovering.

A verdict of death as a result of accidental shooting was returned.

Neutrals To Vanish, Says Law Expert

organisation is possible, and the League of Nations, with all of its defects, is a great step in the right direction..

VARIOUS DEVELOPMENTS

"There are various developments which I predict will come within the next fifty years.

"First, that divergencies or interpretation will be removed by conferences and compromises.

"Second, there will be great progress in codification. Much that is now international custom will be embodied in definite rules. What I mean by codification is to be understood in a broad sense, not only the rules of law as they exist today, but as they should be.

"In the third place we shall see a larger number of agencies to settle disputes.

"Fourth, we shall see much greater emphasis placed on the systemising of the law of peace rather than the law of war. In the past too much attention has been paid to the codification of the laws of war on the theory that war is inevitable; that they are part of the plan of the universe, and therefore we should prescribe rules for conducting them. The law of peace has been neglected, and upon the building up of that part of the law is what we should the future emphasis.

"Fifth, there should be, and I believe there will be, a fundamental change in the attidude of the states toward the violation of international law. Heretofore in cases of dispute between powers, their states have stood aloof claiming that it was not of their affair. In the case of ordinary crime, the wrong is considered against each individual of the community; thus it should be in the realm of international law.

"The doctrine of non-intervention and neutrality will prevail less and less in the future. I venture to assert that in the future all wars will be general wars, wars of continents rather than between single states. There are two reasons for this view: (1) That it has proved to be as costly to remain neutral as to join in the war; and (2) that the interests of the nations of the world have become so bound up with each other, it is very difficult for them to remain neutral. President Wilson in a speech in 1916 said: 'This is the last great war in which the United States will remain neutral,' but in fact we know that she did not remain neutral in it. Although I wish it could be otherwise, it is my belief that the United States must enter the wars of the future, and that neutrality will disappear more and more.

"In conclusion let me say that International Law is a great and noble factor. Its development is before it, and it is going through the same process of development through which municipal law has gone. More attention will be paid to duties of states than to rights. The law should be super-national rather than international."

A little and good

THERE is a distinguishing feature in the business of the house of HAIG & HAIG. Most Distillers have various brands of varying qualities. HAIG & HAIG have one brand only, and they claim (and the public acclaim) that it is the finest that goes from Scotland.

It is a regrettable fact that all retailers have not the same high standard of commercial honesty and it is known that cheaper brands are sometimes passed on to the public under the label of houses of high repute.

When you see a genuine bottle of HAIG & HAIG Five Stars Scots Whisky it will be the same fine quality in London in Lucknow, or in Labrador; in the Langham Hotel, in the G.O.H. at Colombo, and in the best Clubs in Cape Town.

CHINESE ENVOYS LEAVE ON 'WILSON' FOR CONFERENCE

H. Y. Moh, Cotton Mill Owner, Heads Honolulu Delegation

The Chinese delegation to the Pan-Pacific Commercial Conference at Honolulu on October 25 sailed yesterday morning on the President Wilson from the China Merchants Central Wharf. A large number of prominent Chinese were at the ship to bid the delegates bon voyage.

The delegation from China to the big commercial gathering in Honolulu consists of Mr. H. Y. Moh, prominent cotton mill owner, who goes as chief delegate, and Mr. S. U. Zau, who were both appointed by the Peking Government, and Mr. Paul Y. Pih and Chao Kwei-feng, representing local organisations. Mr. Tseng Hsi-tao goes as secretary.

The Congress, which is to be held from October 25 to 31, will not entertain the recommendation that the United States government abolish its discriminatory coastwise shipping laws which the Japanese delegates are thought to be preparing to present before the sessions of the Congress, according to a statement of Dr. F. F. Bunker, executive secretary of the Pan-Pacific Union, issued as the result of the receipt of a message by a Japanese newspaper in Honolulu from Tokio indicating that the Japanese delegates would seek to have the Congress recommend to the American government that it alter its shipping laws in favor of foreign steamship lines.

ECONOMIC QUESTIONS

The Congress will discuss only economic questions and will bar all problems which are political in nature, as the policy of the Pan-Pacific Union is to not discuss at any conference held under its auspices any matters which might be left to the established governmental agencies, according to Dr. Bunker. This statement by the Union official will put a stop to any move which might have been made by delegates to the Conference to have a suggestion made to the American Congress that the present coastwise shipping laws prohibiting all vessels other than those of American registry from engaging in the traffic between two American ports.

The program for the Congress is complete and the sessions will be attended by a large number of prominent business men and governmental officials from all countries bordering the Pacific Ocean, according to Dr. Bunker. On the first day one delegate from each country represented will speak on the subject, "Significant Pan-Pacific Commercial Problems of My Country," "Transportation and Communications," will be the general topic for discussion the second day and it will be divided into the following subjects: Survey of existing cable and wireless facilities; establishment of lower special rates, fixing responsibility and granting improved facilities for the press; analysis of present trade routes and development of new ones, and desirability of free zones or free ports in the Pacific.

"Development and Conservation of National Resources," will be discussed during the third day, October 27. Such topics as methods to be employed in resources in order to provide for future expansion of Pacific industry and transportation, and methods to be pursued in preventing a crisis in the world rice and sugar situations will be taken up and considered in detail. On the fourth day "Finance and Investments" will govern the discussions of the Congress. Exchange difficulties, the need for uniform bills of exchange to insure reliability, terms of credit in the Pan-Pacific area to stimulate foreign trade and the standardisation of trade certificates will be the subjects of several addresses by prominent men which have been arranged.

PAN-PACIFIC RELATIONS

The closing day will be given over to the consideration of internation relations in the Pacific basis. The arbitration of commercial misunderstandings and the need for co-operation among the various agencies will be the two main topics taken up at the sessions of this day. If any recommendations are made to the various governments regarding commercial legislation they will be made at this time, according to the outline of the program which has been received here and which has been approved by officials of the Pan-Pacific Union.

HURON WINS HOT 13 INNING GAME FROM THE BLACK HAWK

By Westa

One of the fan-tailed and feathered facts that is recorded in all text books of natural history is that the Hooron and the Blackhawk are deadly and hereditary enemies. These two birds, according to every ornithologist that ever studied them, cherish a hatred of each other that transcends all ordinary hatreds. They dislike and distrust each other so much, in fact, that whenever they find themselves within a mile of each other, and even though they are blindfolded and in cages, they become extremely nervous and agitated, their irritation taking the form of pecking savagely at the bars of the cage, as though it were their ancient rival's neck, or sawing the air frantically with their terrible claws, as though striving to tear out the eyes of their old time foes.

Yesterday, due to the fact that the new admiral which Mr. Harding sent out here some time ago to take charge of the Asiatic fleet hadn't yet learned of the ferocious habits of these birds, the two specimens that were captured by the sailors this summer in the mountain crags up near Chefoo were given simultaneous shore leave, and within a few minutes after the new admiral, little dreaming of the terrible consequences of his act, had signed the order for this little excursion to terra firma the two birds, the wild and wooly Hooron and the savage, cutthroat Blackhawk, were tearing each other limb from limb, in a perfect tornado of flying feathers, on the baseball diamond at the race course.

The score was 9 to 4 in favor of the Hoorons, but it took them thirteen innings to reach a decision.

SOME GYME

It was some game, brethern and sistern—in fact, quite the rippingest, jolly old top-hole gyme played here this summer, or any other summer for that matter. As stated, it went thirteen innings, and through each and every one of them there was a sprinkling of sharp hitting and sensational fielding that fairly took away the breath of the spectators.

Ordinarily a single ninth inning finish adds quite a little zest to a baseball game, but in this one there were two. First the Hurons, coming to bat in the ninth one run in the wake of their rivals, drove over two counters, which looked like enough to win the way their pitcher, the big, tall, lanky Tackett, was travelling. But the Blackhawks, stirred to a wild pitch of fury by this rally on the part of their opponents, came right back in their final session with the one marker necessary to tie.

From then on it was a battle royal. The fielders speared liners and knocked down grass cutters like men possessed, and out in left field for the Blackhawks there was a little gob who was so small that nobody saw him when they were dealing out uniforms, and who, because of that oversight, was compelled to toil in a pair of those flare bottomed navy pants which spread out as they approach the wearer's shoes like a morning glory or a phonograph horn; but what this chap lacked in baseball togs he more than made up in fielding ability. He raced all over his territory, into the short field to pick aspiring Texas leaguers off his shoe laces, or more properly, out of the nether draperies of his trousers, and then back to the golf club house to pull down would-be homers with one handed leaps that made one think of Clyde Milan or Tris Speaker in their palmiest days.

DECISION IN THE 13TH

In the thirteenth, just as it began to look like the contest would have to be called on account of darkness, the Blackhawk pitcher lost his steadiness for a moment, passing two men. Hostettler then singled, and as the infield played in close to take an expected bunt from Scymanski, that ol' timer crossed them by cracking out a healthy double that cleared the bases and put the game on ice for his team. A moment later, to show that his hit was no fluke, "Skee" audaciously stole home while Sharp was taking his wind-up. Simer then added to the misery of the Blackhawks by busting out a long triple, scoring a minute later when Brouvier pegged wildly to first on Dissler's grounder.

In their half the Blackhawks got two men on, with nobody down, and another rally seemed to be in the making. But their hopes were snuffed out on a double play engineered by the irrepressible Scymanski.

Following is the box score:

Baseball Notes

BY WESTA

Yesterday's battle between the Huron and the Blackhawk was a hummer, and it was unfortunate that there were no advance notices. Asked why they had kept it such a secret the sailors replied that it was 'only a practice game.'

Some of the catches pulled off in left field by Provost, the little chap with the big legged pants, were absolute marvels. Each of his six putouts was a hair raiser.

Maloney was out there, umpiring. If anybody in this town tried to pull off a ball game in a cellar over in Pootung Mal would smell it out, and be there.

Bouvier, the Blackhawk shortstopper, is a dead ringer for Cluni, of the 38th Destroyer Division team. Everybody except the sailors who knew him was calling him "Wop," thinking he was Cluni.

The Hurons were all dolled up in slick new uniforms of blue flannel with white trimmings. They presented a very natty appearance.

Scymanski played his usual brilliant game at third, only more brilliant than usual. Any time they knock anything in the direction of that bird they'd better charter one of those extra fast airplanes to get to first. Skee was whipping them over yesterday with the speed of bullets, and always right into the first sacker's mitts. What a sweet asset he would be to the Shanghai team.

Sharp, in addition to pitching a fine game for the Blackhawks, banged out three useful hits. He is a left hander with good speed and curves.

Draper, the Huron pitcher who set the Shanghai team down in the Fourth of July game here, is no longer with the team, having left for home while the fleet was at Chefoo. In the meantime Tackette has improved wonderfully.

As proof of the statement that Tackette has improved, witness the fact that he whiffed fifteen of the Blackhawks yesterday. He was burning them over in great shape.

In the absence of a backstop the sailors engaged a small army of coolies to chase fouls, and they were kept busy all afternoon.

Mal said yesterday that there would be a game Sunday between the Huron and Shanghai teams, and he hopes to get together a squad sufficiently strong to give the sailors a run for their money.

Next week, if it doesn't rain, there ought to be some bang-up baseball between the sailor teams. The Destroyer outfits are in port, and with a summer's practice under their belts they are stronger than ever.

Yesterday, in the eighth, the Blackhawks walked off the field because a ball down homerun alley was called fair, when they contended it was foul. Mal, who was umpiring back of the pitcher, admitted he could not decide, whereupon the Hurons appealed to some of their own shipmates who were standing back of the catcher. They said it was foul by ten feet, whereupon Skee and Co. agreed to send the runners back and let the batter try again. This was acceptable to the Blackhawks, and the game was resumed.

35 CANDIDATES SEEK PLACES ON S.A.S. RUGBY XI

American School Boys To Be Read For Games In 2 Weeks

Thirty-five candidates for the football team of the American School turned up yesterday afternoon at the Y. M. C. A. field for the first practice of the season.

Coach Van Hook divided them into three squads and hustled them through a bit of scrimmaging. Among the youngsters who came out for the first time there are a few of more than ordinary promise. Harold Brewster, who played quarterback last fall, will lead the S. A. S. grid men this year, and will probably play in the backfield. Squires will also be in the game, and is expected to cause Mal Maloney's Shanghai bunch a lot of worry.

In the line Parker, Lawton, McGinnis and McDaniel will form the nucleus of the new defense, and there are a number of others that will fight for a chance to play.

The Y. M. C. A. field has been secured until Hongkew Park opens for football the 15th. The American School management is desirous of games with light Shanghai and Navy elevens, and will be prepared to play their first games in two or three weeks. From the spirit shown yesterday at the first sight of the pigskin, it is evident that they will have a team by that time that will give any bunch around Shanghai a run for its money.

N. Y. NATIONALS TAKE FIRST WORLD SERIES CONTEST, 3-2

(China Press Service)

New York, Oct. 5.—A savage batting rally in the eighth inning drove Joe Bush, stellar hurler of the New York American League champions, from the box and scored three runs for the Giants, bringing the National League pennant winners from behind to a 3-2 victory in the opening game of the world's series.

A crowd of 35,000 jammed into the famous Polo Grounds this afternoon, after hundreds had stood in line along 150th street—clear to Columbus Avenue—and many had held their places all night in order that they might be sure of seeing the first clash of America's premier baseball clubs.

And the crowd was rewarded by a series of thrills in the eighth, the inning that saw Joe Bush, the Yankees' fondest hope, chased to the showers. Until this session Bush, performing in the style that brought him the honor of attempting to bring the first victory home for the Yankees, had turned the Giants back without a tally. He had allowed but five safe bingles in seven innings and then the crash came.

The Yankees had a 2-0 lead when four consecutive crashing singles and a long sacrifice fly brought three runs to John McGraw's word's champions.

The Giants outhit the Yankees in the opening game, netting eleven hits, sharp fielding by the Yankees holding the score to the three runs scored in the fatal eighth. The American Leaguers played an errorless game while three slipups were charged up against the Giants.

Behind this screen aircraft will be able to hide their movements from an approaching enemy.

NEW, LAME DUCK, MAY GET WOOD'S PHILIPPINE JOB

Defeated Senator Talked Of As Next Governor-General

(China Press Service)

Manila, Oct. 5.—Senator Harry S. New of Indiana will succeed Governor-General Wood as Governor-General of the Philippines according to information received unofficially at the Oyuntamiento.

Despite the fact that the report received in Manila that Senator New will succeed General Leonard Wood as Governor-General of the Philippines is not official it is believed that it will be confirmed by official announcement before the expiration of Governor-General Wood's term.

General Wood has already received three extensions of his leave from the University of Pennsylvania which has first claim on his services, and it is now expected that he will leave Manila on the first of the year.

Senator New is serving his first term as Senator from Indiana, and as he was defeated for renomination by former Senator Alfred Beveridge in the primaries last month he will retire in March, 1923. When Mr. Harding was elected President Senator New was offered a Cabinet post but declined. He is one of President Harding's intimate friends and was a pre-convention campaign manager for him. Since President Harding's incumbrency Senator New has been perhaps his closest advisor.

Senator New is a 'reformed' newspaperman, having been a reporter, editor and publisher of the Indianapolis Journal, a leading Indiana daily. Later he was head of a construction company. He served in the Spanish-American War.

France's Revenue From Taxes Higher

(French Wireless through Reuter)

Paris, Oct. 5.—M. de Lasteyrie, the Minister of Finance, speaking at a banquet of the Paris Chamber of Commerce, explained the result as given by the income-tax, which had increased from 892,000,000 francs in 1919 to 2,197,000,000 in 1921.

He said that he favored methods of valuation doing away as far as possible with contact between the public treasury and the tax-payer.

The forfeit system would be applied to the business tax, the monthly average returns from which had increased from 158,000,000 francs in 1921 to 183,000,000 francs in 1922.

M. de Lasteyrie drew attention to the importance of France's fiscal effort, which had increased the revenue from taxes from 11,586,000,000 francs in 1919 to 21,543,000,000 in 1921.

British Amazed At New U. S. Tariff

(Literary Digest)

As America buys more from England than from any other country, the British will feel our new tariff duties pretty severely, and much interest attaches to English opinion, therefore, which has been crystallising during the time the bill has been in process of building. Perhaps the most illuminating revelation of the British attitude is to be found in the Manchester Guardian, that influential newspaper representing trade sense in the widest industrial and manufacturing region of England. What hits this daily hardest of all in the provisions of the bill, apparently, is the fact that it confers on the President of the United States "arbitrary powers over trade for which there is no parallel in any Anglo-Saxon country since the days of the Stuarts." To Europeans, whatever their fiscal views, it declares, the whole bill seems an incredible folly in the light of international indebtedness. While on the one hand America asserts her intention to recover the last cent of money owed by Europe, we are told, on the other hand, a barrier, unparalleled for its height in the history of protection, is raised against the goods by which, and by which alone, these debts can be paid. We read then:

"When the Republicans came into power they found in existence a tariff under which the average rate on dutiable goods was some 37 percent. They promptly introduced a bill, raising the average rate to about 45 percent and moved a number of commodities from the free to the dutiable list. If some obeisance had to be made to the traditional high protectionism of the party, it might well have ended there. But the bill, in fact, gives the President powers which, if used in combination, would raise the rate on the articles concerned to the fantastic figure of over 100 percent. If, for instance, he thinks domestic industry is likely to be injured by any class of imports, he can order that they be valued for taxation, not as in the past at the price paid for them in the country of their origin, but at the price they would be presumed to fetch in the American market. This of itself would mean an added duty of at least 20 percent; but he can in addition clap on, if he thinks fit, a further duty of anything up to another 50 percent."

After this, The Guardian goes on to say, the clause that enables the President to prevent the dumping of foreign goods "by excluding them entirely" seems superfluous. The powers conferred upon the President, even if used with the utmost care and discretion, would by the uncertainty of their application have a chaotic effect on trade, according to this daily, which adds:

"At their worst they give the Executive power to enrich or ruin an industry at will. Well may Senator Underwood describe the proposal as the 'greatest power for political corruption' ever given since the beginning of United States Government. The country is not blind to the dangers of the bill. Banking interests especially have been foremost in protest. But with their present strength the Republican high protectionists, even allowing for the defections from their own ranks, can probably force it through and maintain it for two years pending a general election. After that, if past American reactions on the tariff question are any guide, will come the deluge."

Something To Think About

BY BRUNO LESSING

It's an old story, but I love it: Stranger in town: "Son, where's the Third National Bank?"

Colored man: "Boss, ah doan' even know wha' de Fust National Bank am."

The doctor looks you over carefully and hands you a prescription.

"Just a temporary, functional derangement of the metabolic process. Take these capsules for a few days and be careful of your diet and you'll be all right."

"But, doctor," you say, "tell me exactly—so that I can understand it—what is the matter with me?"

"My dear sir," he will tell you if he is honest, "medicine is not an exact science. Your slight symptoms may be the effect of a thousand causes. All I know is that I've met these symptoms before and have always cured them in the same way."

And all that you know—with reasonable certainty—is that he's going to send you a bill. But he doesn't know where the First National Bank is.

The lawyer listens to your side of the case and carefully studies the documents you give him.

"You'll win this case," he says.

"Are you sure of that, Counsellor?" you ask, eagerly. He shrugs his shoulders—if he's honest—and replies:

"In the practice of law, my boy, we are sure of nothing. No one can tell how a judge will decide. And as for a jury—Lord deliver us!"

He doesn't know where the First National is, either.

The chemist who deals with elements does not know exactly what an atom or an electron is. He just deals with them.

The electrician does not know what electricity is.

A man may feel sure that a woman loves him—but he cannot know it. (And vice versa).

And if you have never been up in an aeroplane you cannot know exactly what it is like.

It seems to me that it is all a matter of the First National Bank.

Two and two make four. If you understand the rudiments of logic you can prove it. But, outside of a few such elementary truths, have you ever taken stock of your Knowledge of nature, of life, of events, of men, of women, of your own business, your own surroundings, your own interests, your own convictions—and figured out how much you actually and truly know and how much you only think you know?

It's a grand experiment.

What Presence Of Mind Means

Dr. J. Arthur Thomson is professor of natural history in Aberdeen University, Scotland. He was formerly lecturer on zoology and biology in Edinburgh, and Gifford lecturer at St. Andrew's. Recently he edited the Outlines of Science, described as a "plain story simply told."

Professor Thomson's equipment is unusual, but the most surprising fact is that a man of his profound knowledge of the physical sciences should be able to write with an agreeable pen, to the delight of the average individual without this training, and at the same time satisfy the technical demands of the physical scientists.

BY PROF. J. A. THOMSON

The enviable quality which we call presence of mind means alertness in answering back effectively in difficult situations. It is displayed when the practical man averts a double railway accident by hurrying along the line to signaling distance; when the witness in a law court keeps his head under severe cross-examination; when the director of an orchestra by a clever choice of tune stops a fire panic in a theater; when a speaker on the platform of a public meeting comes well out of what is called in Scotland a "heckling"; when the captain of a liner maintains order after a collision at sea; when a surgeon, hurriedly summoned, performs a life or death operation in the nick of time; when a general by supreme tactics wins a battle that seemed lost; when a politician by a witty repartee turns to good account an ill natured interjection at a public meeting; when a horseman or a driver by daring dexterity avoids what appeared certain destruction to himself and others; or when an administrator by a clever and unhesitating stroke cuts a Gordian knot.

What would one not give to have this ready presence of mind! Every one has an admiration for the man who does the right thing so coolly and confidently when there is a street accident or a fire or a dog fight or a disorderly public meeting or a brain stretching argument!

In games that are deliberate where the time factor does not operate, as in golf or chess (if either can be called a game) there is no characteristic opportunity for presence of mind. The same holds true for billiards. But in quick games like cricket, tennis, football and baseball there is an obvious time factor, and the psychical quality of "presence of mind" counts for much. This gives us a clew in recognising the characteristic feature of "presence of mind." It means rapidity of decision, an alertness of judgment, a short latent period between stimulus and response.

But if we follow further the clew of presence of mind suggested by quick games, we get hold of another idea, that presence of mind implies an open mindedness to a considerable range of possibilities. It means an imaginative all-roundness. The tennis player is ready for all sorts of balls; the public speaker is ready for all sorts of questions; the physician or surgeon is ready for all sorts of "complications." There are some simple animals, like the slipper animalcule (so intimately studied by Prof. Woodruff of Yale), that have only one answer back to every environmental question. This implies little "presence of mind;" perhaps the creature has never more than flashes of mind at any time. But a cat, "ready for anything," has much presence of mind, and a Prime Minister or a President has more!

Just as Darwin in his "Origin of Species" and "Descent of Man" anticipated a score of difficulties confronting his evolution theory, projecting himself in his surpassing candor into the position of an antagonist, so the man with presence of mind is not only ready—he anticipates.

A third component in "presence of mind" is self-possession, which means a control of attention so that it is focused on the essential business in hand. Many able-minded people, self-possessed in their ordinary environment, are distracted and perturbed by crowded streets or by the atmosphere of the salon or by the huge assembly or by contact with aristocrats and very famous personages. Why, when the very self-possessed Heine walked from Jena to Weimar to visit Goethe, what could he say, at first, but that the plums on the roadside trees were very good that year! And when a continental princess met a world famous philosopher she was, with all her courtesy, dumb before him.

"Es fallt mir nichts ein" (nothing occurred to me to say), she admitted afterward. In spite of all her experience she had for the time being lost her presence of mind, and here we may note that the quality of never being at a loss, though not confined to aristocrats is perhaps seen in them in its finest flower, provided that they are big intellectually and morally as well as socially.

It means, no doubt, a kindly disposition; it may have behind it (we have no experience) the supreme self-confidence engendered by security of position; but presence of mind means, for many, a wide experience of all sorts of situations and a habituation of responding sympathetically to all sorts of stimuli. We once formed unit in a party of about a hundred zoologists who shook hands with President Roosevelt (he could give a good shake) and what struck us most was the extraordinary appropriateness of the dozen or so words he addressed to each of us. He was a big man and kindly, but our belief is that his gratifying presence of mind on that occasion was in no small degree the outcome of habituation in the art of responding sympathetically. Of one of the most successful and popular of restaurant hosts, who contrived to throw a spice of the "Arabian Nights" into a simple meal, it was said shrewdly that he managed to make you believe that you were the only guest in the room and that he had been waiting for you all the evening. It meant a quality of sympathetic imagination; it meant a big, kindly nature, but it also meant habituation in an art.

The negative side of this is that a very wise man, or a very good man, may be handicapped in his influence for lack of savoir-faire in unaccustomed situations or for lack of experience in dealing with human beings very different from himself. This does not apply to supermen, for we cannot think of Plato or Aristotle, Shakespeare or Goethe failing in presence of mind in any company or any circumstance, but for ordinary mortals the enviable quality usually implies habituation. The troublesome fact is that some relatively trivial novelty of environment, such as crowded streets or a social strife of tongues, may make a fool of a wise man!

To sum up, presence of mind means (1) readiness of effective response in difficult situations; (2) an all-round imaginative anticipation of probable contingencies, and (3) an even less definable quality which might be described as a selective control of attention so that irrelevant distractions are not allowed to interfere.

We cannot make bricks without straw, nor a silk purse out of a sow's ear; and there is little hope of cultivating presence of mind in people who have sluggish perceptions and a very long latent period, i.e., the interval between stimulus and response. But the fact that people who showed, to begin with, little presence of mind in quick games may eventually become good players, proves that the quality can be cultivated. Our question is: How?

We are inclined to think that the cultivation of the quality demands some humility—enough to take the trouble to anticipate probable situations. If one goes to give a debatable address without anticipating probable objections one is not likely to respond very effectively to the discussion. If one starts on an expedition without imagining the probable contingencies that may arise, one is certainly diminishing one's chance of showing presence of mind when things go agley.

It is only common sense to say to oneself: "What shall I answer if I am asked how this or that new discovery affects my thesis?" It is only common sense to say to oneself: "What shall I do if provisions run short before I reach the end of my proposed journey?" Successful debaters and explorers have always been humble enough to anticipate.

For men of ordinary caliber who have to live crowded hours with many a risk of being hustled, there is undoubtedly wisdom in premeditating the night before the tactics of the day. A simple device this, but with surprising smoothing out results, especially if one can add to it an obedience to Napoleon's advice of always being ready the day before! It is in hurries and scurries that men lose their presence of mind most hopelessly. "Forewarned is forearmed" and an imaginative anticipation of a concourse which will be trying to temper as well as to wits is bound to be steadying. We do not need modern psychology to tell us that it may save a situation if we decide the day before that on no account will we lose our temper with our visitor, exasperating as he may prove himself to be. The simple point is that morally as well as intellectually we should anticipate our day's game of chess.

The second part of the recipe is, we are afraid, rather too obvious to be acceptable. But it is sound. We must not only anticipate situations, we must experience them. A great German philosopher of today once accompanied two golfers on their round and showed an extraordinarily intelligent interest in the significance of the various strokes which he witnessed for the first time. He put his big brain into the business; he attended his mind thereunto, as Sir Isaac Newton said. Intellectually he mastered the game and many of the Honorable Company's rules. But we were a little amused to hear him tell his wife in the evening: "Yes, I can now play golf." It is needless to say that his confidence would not survive many holes when he began to play.

In a quick game, such as life is, intellectual anticipation will not suffice to engender presence of mind. There must be actual apprenticeship and a discipline not without its patience. A friend of ours in student days began to swim by jumping from a bathing pier into the sea—and he swam. But in nine cases out of ten the experiment would have ended in drowning or in an ignominious rescue. For ordinary mortals presence of mind in difficult situations must be engendered by a progressive discipline. We have seen one of the wisest of living men miss entirely the opportunity of gripping a good audience—simply for lack of humility in subjecting himself to the discipline of platform speaking. A big man may be thrown off his bearings by relatively trivial environmental conditions, which a short experience would have enabled him to transcend. The only remedy is that we should accustom ourselves, by apprenticeship, to such situations as are likely to recur with frequency in our experience.

Of course we need not waste time in learning to walk backward before royalty, for the contingency is not likely to arise often, if ever, in the life history of most of us. But we can and should discipline ourselves in the presence of mind required in situations which are bound to occur over and over again.

Presence of mind implies elasticity of intelligence and a power of rapidly focusing the attention. It cannot be illustrated in conditions of worry, when some recollection or care is always intervening between the mind and its immediate object. Except in rare cases of control or habitual self-mastery it is not likely to be displayed when there is some serious bodily distraction. Presence of mind is normally associated with positive health and well ordered living, when mind and body are in a condition of harmony and vigor. Just as poisoning in many forms often interferes with the bodily reflexes which the physician tests, so is it with the promptness and precision of mental reflexes.

The Powers Of Telescopes

BY GARRETT P. SERVISS

Eminent Astronomer and Authority on Subjects of Scientific Interest.

"What is the power of the telescope at the Lick observatory? Would a good-make telescope of thirty-eight power be of much use for limited astronomical work? What of the heavenly wonders would such a glass reveal? Anything of Mars?—F. N. F., New York."

The Lick telescope has an object-glass thirty-six inches in diameter, or, as astronomers call it, aperture. Now, the object-glass of a telescope is like the lens of an eye, in that by concentrating at its focus the rays of light from an object it forms an image of that object, which may be examined with a magnifier called the eye-piece. Moreover, the size of the object-glass determines the amount of light that is concentrated at its focus. This amount varies with the square of the diameter of the glass.

The first essential of a telescope is that it shall collect more light than the naked eye does. The amount of light entering the eye is limited by the size of the round hole in the iris called the pupil, which, on the average, is from a fifth to a quarter of an inch in diameter. Since the light varies with the square of the diameter if we have a telescope one inch in aperture, and the pupil of the eye is one-fourth of an inch, the light-gathering power of the telescope will be to that of the naked eye as sixteen to one. For terrestrial seeing, by daylight, it is probably twenty-five to one, for in a bright light the pupil contracts to a fifth of an inch, or less.

Now, the object-glass of the Lick telescope being thirty-six inches in aperture, which is at least 144 times the aperture of the pupil, its light-gathering power must be the square of 144, or 20,736 times that of the naked eye. If no light were lost in transmission through the glass, the telescope should, therefore, show stars twenty thousand times fainter than the faintest that the unaided eye can see.

This brings into view millions of stars where the eye sees only a few thousand. It also enables the telescope to "penetrate" into enormous depths of space that may appear black and starless to the eye alone. Thus a star that lies just at the limit of visibility to the naked eye would, if removed to a distance about 140 times greater, still be within the range of the Lick telescope.

In viewing the sun, the moon and the planets, all of which exhibit more or less extended disks, the light-gathering power of the telescope enables the astronomer to magnify the image many fold without rendering it too faint to be clearly seen. Experience has shown that the magnifying power that can be effectively used with any telescope bears a pretty regular ratio to the aperture, namely about fifty or sixty diameters to the inch. Under very exceptional circumstances, and only for particular objects, a power as high as 100 diameters to the inch of aperture may occasionally be employed. For ordinary purposes the astronomer does not often go beyond 1,000 or 1,500 diameters with even the largest telescopes. If we take sixty as the average maximum magnification, then the power of the Lick telescope may be put at about 2,100 diameters. If it were practicable to press the magnifying to the theoretical limit, the power would be 3,600 diameters.

People often ask: How close does such or such a telescope bring the moon, or a given planet? The answer is easy, depending simply on the magnification used. The rule is to divide the known distance of the moon, or the planet, in miles by the number of diameters its image is magnified, and the quotient will be the apparent distance in miles as seen through the telescope. But because of loss of light, distortion of image, etc., the distinctness of the object in the telescope is never as great as it would be in a naked-eye view taken at that same distance.

To illustrate the rule, if the magnification is 240 diameters the moon will be seen as if only 1,000 miles away, instead of 240,000, its real distance. A power of 250 diameters brings the planet Mars, now about 50,000,000 miles away, up to a distance of about 200,000 miles.

You ask about the usefulness for astronomical observations of a telescope of "38-power" by which I assume that you mean magnifying power. A well-made object-glass of one inch aperture would easily bear such a power as that. It is about the power of the best telescope that Galileo succeeded in making, and his success in celestial discovery is a warrant that you could not fail to see something very interesting with the little glass in question.

It would show you many interesting features of the moon. You could see all the large "craters," the mountain ranges, and the shadows of high peaks. It would show many thousands of stars too faint for the eye. Carefully used you could glimpse Saturn's ring system with it. It would also reveal all four of Jupiter's principal satellites. It would show the crescent figure of Venus when she begins to pass between the sun and the earth next Autumn. You could not see much of Mars with it, but probably you would perceive that its disk is not all of one color. A great deal depends upon the intelligence that you put into the use of such an instrument as a telescope. A good observer can see more with a small glass than a poor one can with a giant.

The Week's Market Report

COTTON

In their weekly report on the Shanghai cotton market, Messrs. A. B. Rosenfeld and Son write as follows:

China Cotton.—During the past week the market has had a slightly better appearance and an upward reaction of about three quarters of a tael has taken place. The only cause of the advance, however, has been a decrease of pressure from Japanese and shorts covering on the part of those who sold too enthusiastically last week. Furthermore, weather conditions have also strengthened the market on account of the very unsatisfactory rain we have had during the week.

The natural result of our reasoning is, as we said last week, that we see no reason for either materially higher or materially lower prices for cotton in the near future, until something more definite can be known as to the general outlook in the world markets.

Yarn.—The market during the early part of the week has been keeping steady, and at the close prices advanced some one to two taels with trading showing a little improvement. Business for export has been booked, some 6-7,000 bales in all of 20's, 16's, 14's, 12's and 10's, and over 1,000 bales direct booking with our Domestic Mills is recorded.

SPUNT'S REPORT

Messrs. J. Spunt and Company write as follows in their report on the cotton market:

China Cotton:—The past week, though somewhat curtailed by the mid-autumn festival intervening, manifested a little more activity than was experienced during the previous period in that a fair demand for near deliveries made itself felt for local consumption which, coupled with the quantities exported to Japan, seems to have engendered a rising tendency that may probably continue so long as the receipts from the interior marts remain as meagre as they have been up to date.

While the yarn market shows as yet no encouraging improvement and the spinners in general continue keeping aloof from any heavy commitments on the raw material either for near or future deliveries yet the rates on the local staple continue evincing a firmer and upward tendency for which at the moment no other cause is discernible than the fact of the new season crop not coming up to the expectations heretofore entertained. Mid-Americans and Indians point to a steadily upward movement and more often than not also influence this market, therefore, with the foregoing before us there evolves a natural indication that purchases made on any favorable reaction will ultimately prove profitable. Tone of the market, Steady.

PONGEE SILK

The China Merchants Pongee Association have received the following report on the Pongee silk market from their head office at Chefoo.

Very small sales were reported during the week, Market quiet. The following is a report received from Antung Re the Cocoon Autumn crop dated September 16:

The quality of the first few baskets of cocoons received in this market is fairly good. The average weight of the cocoons is somewhat lighter than that of last year's crop. It is said that this is due to the recent rains and cold weather and also to a shortage of oak leaves for feeding the worms.

It is still unknown if the whole crop in Manchuria is thus effected, as only a few baskets have so far reached the Antung market. The market for Tussah silk is strong with upwards tendency.

HAIRNET

Messrs. Yannoulatos Bros. (China) have received the following report on the hairnet market from their head office at Chefoo.

The market is again active with a demand for Double mesh cannets from America.

Supplies, however, are still small and as a consequence prices are hardening.

Single Nets:—Market quiet.

Double Capnets:—Market firm.

HANKOW MARKET

The British Chamber of Commerce at Hankow write as follows in their weekly circular dated Hankow, September 27:

Bar silver after being 35⅝ ready and forward on the 24th inst., dropped to 34¼ ready and 34⅛ forward, recovering later to 35⅝ ready and 35¼ forward at which rate it closed. New York-London cross rate dropped steadily all the week from 442¾ to 441¼. The Official T.T. rate sterling, dropped from 3s. 6⅝d. to 3s. 6⅛d., notwithstanding which there were sellers throughout up to 3s. 6⅝d., and higher than this during the early part of the week. 4 m-s. Credits have been placed down to 3s. 7½d. and Gold Dollars down to 80⅝. Business showed a slight improvement over previous weeks. Chinese market rates:—Shanghai Tls. 97.35. Local currency $70.3. Native interest. 15 per cent having risen from 9 percent per annum.

Exports.—Some further small purchases of sesamum seed are reported, otherwise very little business of any kind has been done. Tael prices are slightly easier.

CASTORIA

for Infants and Children.

The Effects of Opiates.

THAT INFANTS are peculiarly susceptible to opium and its various preparations, all of which are narcotic, is well known. Even in the smallest doses, if continued, these opiates cause changes in the functions and growth of the cells, which are likely to become permanent, causing imbecility, mental perversion, a craving for alcohol or narcotics in later life. Nervous diseases, such as intractable nervous dyspepsia and lack of staying power, are a result of dosing with opiates or narcotics to keep children quiet in their infancy. The rule among physicians is that children should never receive opiates in the smallest doses for more than a day at a time, and only then if unavoidable.

The administration of Anodynes, Drops, Cordials, Soothing Syrups and other narcotics to children by any but a physician cannot be too strongly decried, and the druggist should not be a party to it. Children who are ill need the attention of a physician, and it is nothing less than a crime to dose them wilfully with narcotics. Castoria contains no narcotics if it bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

The signature of Chas. H. Fletcher guarantees genuine Castoria.

Physicians Recommend Castoria.

"Your preparation known as Castoria I have used for years in children's complaints and I have found nothing better."
JOHN J. LEPPA, M. D., Cleveland, Ohio.

"For several years I recommended your 'Castoria' and shall always continue to do so, as it has invariably produced beneficial results."
EDWIN F. PARDEE, M. D., New York City.

"Your Castoria is a meritorious household remedy. It is purely vegetable and acts as a mild cathartic. Above all, it does no harm, which is more than can be said of the great majority of children's remedies."
VICTOR H. COFFMAN, M. D., Omaha, Neb.

"I have prescribed your Castoria in many cases and have always found it an efficient and speedy remedy."
A. F. PEELER M. D., St. Louis, Mo.

"I have used your Castoria in my own household with good results, and have advised several patients to use it for its mild, laxative effect and freedom from harm."
EDWARD PARRISH, M. D., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Your Castoria holds the esteem of the medical profession in a manner held by no other proprietary preparation. It is a sure and reliable medicine for infants and children, in fact it is the universal household remedy for infantile ailments."
J. A. PARKER, M. D., Kansas City, Mo.

Exchange Fluctuations

Asia Banking Corporation

October 6, 1922

Spot bar silver in London yesterday was 35 3/4d and forward 35 3-16d. The New York price was 69 5/8 cents and the London-New York cross rate 442.

The chief changes in our official quotations here today were a rise in the Gold Dollar rate to 76½ and a drop in the Yen rate to 63. Our market at the opening was inclined to be steady but eased off during the course of the morning, speculators being consistent buyers.

In the early part of the morning business in Sterling was done at 3-5 5/8 for October and 3-5 13-16 for forward. Gold Dollars were done at 76 3/4 October, 76 7/8 November and 77 December-January delivery.

However, in the afternoon speculators increased their buying effects, buying a fair amount of Sterling for December delivery at 3s. 5 5/8d. and Gold Dollar at 76 5/8. At the close the market was a shade steadier with sellers of sterling at 3s. 5 5/8d. October-November and 3s. 5 5/8d. December-January delivery.

There were sellers of Gold Dollars at the close at 76½ October and 76 5/8 November-December delivery. Yen sellers were quoting 63 for October and 62 7/8 for December with buyers at 1/8 below these rates.

Banks were quoting 3s. 6 1/2d. for Sterling bills, 78¼ for Gold Dollar bills and 1035 for Franc bills.

India sold a small amount of silver in London yesterday and the market there as well as in New York is reported as on the easy side.
